

Your aim is to compare two areas of Southampton - Bevois and Bassett:

Make sure you know where the two wards are -you can also read a brief summary of each ward

= what assumptions might you make about the two wards = State your hypothesis and explain it.

Neighbourhood Statistics will allow you to gather data for each ward on the following:

- Housing
- Ethnicity
- Age Structure
- Wealth and employment
- health

I have collated the main sources of data you need to use

Southampton City Council has its own GIS map of Southampton:

- use it to compare statistics for

- deprivation
- income
- crime.
- You can also add and remove layers so you can consider the provision of services in each area e.g. doctors, dentists, hospitals, sports facilities, open spaces...

What are the implications for social welfare?

Your study of two contrasting areas - an inner city and a suburb- should highlight variations in housing, ethnicity, age structure, wealth and employment and the provision of services.

So, what are the implications of these contrasts?

Social Welfare means more than access to state benefits. It is the well-being of communities. It refers to the access that groups of people, or individuals, have to job opportunities, housing, health care, education, a safe environment, and unpolluted environment and a freedom to practise one's culture, religion and so on...

Social welfare can therefore be more or less available: in different parts of a city, to people of different social classes, to different ethnic groups, age groups and even genders. Geographers are most interested in spatial distributions of social welfare

Choose two of the following areas:

- Inner city
- suburb
- rural/urban fringe
- rural settlement

Compare the housing and population structures of your chosen areas and evaluate how well the two areas provide for the social welfare of their resident populations.

Population structure:
inherent - age, gender acquired - religion, socio-economic status

Southampton's Sikh Community

At first, the community was largely concentrated in Southampton Central, by 2001 census the community had grown to 2812 i.e. 1.3% of the population, forming the third largest religious community in Southampton. And as its members have established themselves, they have dispersed into other parts of Southampton and the surrounding areas. However, despite the dispersion Southampton has remained the main centre for the community, with the Gurdwara (Sikh Temple) serving as the hub.

say what social welfare is...

consider how well it's provided for.. is one area better provided for than the other? e.g. job opps, housing, education, quality of env, respect for culture/religion...

remember type not just ownership
Bevois - terraced, high rised flats - the Northam Estate vs large, detached and even gated communities in Bassett what about ethnicity too?

Social Welfare means more than access to state benefits.

It is the well-being of communities:

job opportunities

housing

health care

education and other services

a safe environment, and unpolluted environment

freedom to practise one's culture, religion

what else?

Social welfare is the well-being of communities. There is a greater provision of social services in Bevois, with 8 family support services this can be used as evidence that the diverse ethnic mix is being catered for. The ethnic community also has it's own community centre and mosques. This is not so necessary in Bassett and therefore not provided. Available open space and sporting facilities are much more in evidence in Bassett, however the proximity of Bevois to the CBD may mean that the young are still able to benefit. Education, in terms of schools, is equally available in each ward however the migrant population in Bevois may well require greater support. There is an education inclusion service in Bevois for this.
